AIRLESS PAINT SPRAYER

The main areas of application are thick layers of highly viscous coating material for large areas and a high consumption of material. A piston pump takes in the coating material by suction and conveys it to the tip. Pressed through the tip at a pressure of up to a maximum of 207 bar (20.7 MPa), the coating material is atomised. This high pressure has the effect of micro fine atomisation of the coating material. As no air is used in this process, it is described as an AIRLESS process. This method of spraying has the advantages of finest atomisation, cloudless operation and a smooth, bubble-free surface.

WALLPAPER STRIPPER

Wallpaper strippers are the fastest and easiest way to remove all types of wall coverings. These simple to use tools come with a large tank and as it only uses water to strip away wallpaper, it is environmentally friendly to use. It also has a cool-to-touch hose and overpressure safety valve. To set up the wallpaper stripper simply fill the system with water from the tap. Once the heating element has warmed to the point of steaming it can be applied to the wall. The steam is super-hot and penetrates through the wallpaper to the old adhesive underneath moistening it enough to loosen the paper from the wall.

INDUSTRIAL BLOW HEATER

Many users have found the advantages of propane heaters far outweigh the small additional running costs. The fuel is more completely burned and does not leave an oily residue as experienced with paraffin heaters. There is no odour, except for the few seconds during start-up and the units run a little more quietly since they do not need a compressor to drive the fuel to the burner. Fan assisted, fitted with a piezoelectric ignition system for trouble-free starting and features a direct gas head assembly. Features safety solenoid preventing the unit from leaking gas without first being electrically started.
